June 2016

Message From The Chair

It was a busy spring. Now, it's a busy summer—as this newsletter attests. We continue to make progress in the UA Department of Medicine. We've added a number of faculty—including three and soon-to-be four new division chiefs—and more are on the way. A few of them are our former fellows.

We continue to make progress on our Ambulatory Strategy Task Force, led by Dr. Gordon Carr, now CMO in Tucson for our primary clinical partner Banner – UMC. Our latest meeting was held June 2 (see photos). I appreciate all the work on presentations and your feedback, particularly from new faculty such as Drs. Tammy Ojo, Larry Mandarino (new Endocrinology chief) and Liz Connick (new Infectious Diseases chief).

With the transition of many of our physicians from UA to Banner Health employment, we've created a new "Clinical Series Track" for them to maintain a faculty connection with us. We're also in talks to create a "Primary Care Track" for our Internal Medicine Residency Programs at Tucson and South Campus to encourage more residents to pick and stick with our programs. And we've been exploring an idea to combine the IM Residency Programs as another measure to help them compete better for candidates nationally—though a merger, if any, wouldn't occur for at least three years.

Bear in mind, we'll continue to grow not only because of physical investments on our campuses. About three-quarters of a billion dollars in new construction is now under way between new research and innovation buildings by UAHS and a new hospital tower and multi-specialty outpatient center by Banner. As for personal investments, look for more funding opportunities and faculty development tools this fall to support your research and academic careers, too. One continues to be Career Development Awards, for which an inaugural research symposium was held June 8 (see below). These are all ways we're encouraging you to come, stay and grow with us.

Lastly, I hope you're enjoying our newly redesigned, mobile-ready website that went live in April. Among new items are Feature Spotlights, Researcher Spotlights and Research Projects. Check out webpages for "Accolades & Awards," "Top Doctors" and "DoM Blog" posts. You'll continue to see updates and more features added as needed. Direct requests to communications coordinator David Mogollón, 626-1137.
