About the Presenter: Dr. Liao joined the faculty of the University of Arizona College of Medicine – Tucson as professor and chair of the Department of Medicine in January 2023. The department is the college's largest with 12 divisions, 250 faculty members and more than 200 residents and fellows that it trains annually – in addition to medical student teaching.

Dr. Liao was previously Chief of the Section of Cardiology, the Harold Hines Jr. Professor of Medicine, and the Director of Cardiovascular Research and Physician Scientist Development Program at the University of Chicago's Pritzker School of Medicine. He also helped launch, and served as medical director, the UChicago's Heart and Vascular Center. Before that, he was a Professor of Medicine at Harvard Medical School and the Director of Vascular Medicine Research at Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston. Dr. Liao graduated from UCLA with a bachelor's degree in physical chemistry and earned his medical degree at the University of California, San Francisco. He completed his internal medicine residency at the Brigham and Women's Hospital and Harvard Medical School, followed by research and cardiovascular medicine fellowships at Massachusetts General Hospital and Harvard Medical School.

Dr. Liao is active in many national and international societies and committees. He is an elected member of the American Society for Clinical Investigation and Association of American Physicians and is a fellow of the American College of Cardiology and American College of Physicians. He has served on editorial boards and as an ad hoc reviewer for esteemed journals, including: Circulation, Journal of the American College of Cardiology, The New England Journal of Medicine, Science, Nature and the Journal of Clinical Investigation, among others. Since 2013, he also has been featured among the nation's peer-selected Top Doctors as compiled annually by Castle Connolly Medical Ltd.
