About the Presenter: Dr. Rajnish Mehrota is chief of the Division of Nephrology at Seattle’s Harborview Medical Center and at the University of Washington School of Medicine, where he also is a professor of medicine, the Belding H. Scribner Endowed Professor in Nephrology, and a member of the Kidney Research Institute. His research and clinical work centers on improving the lived experience of those with advanced kidney disease. His research, funded by both the NIH and PCORI, focuses on barriers to greater use of home dialysis and biologic determinants of peritoneal dialysis as well as clinical trials to test interventions for managing symptoms of patients undergoing long-term dialysis. He has co-authored over 300 original research papers and book chapters. He is president-elect for the International Society for Peritoneal Dialysis. He served as editor-in-chief of the Clinical Journal of the American Society of Nephrology (2017-23) and, as of Jan. 1, 2024, is editor-in-chief of the Journal of the American Society of Nephrology and senior editor of the ASN Portfolio of Journals.
