About the Presenter: Dr. Butler graduated from the U of A College of Medicine – Tucson and completed his residency at Harvard Medical School. After residency, he joined the faculty at University of California, San Francisco, where he started the country’s first aging and geriatric skin specialty clinic. He came back to U of A to start a clinical research program that he directs, the Inflammatory and Aging Skin Research Program in the Department of Medicine’s Division of Dermatology. Dr. Butler is interested in how aging influences skin disease and treatment. His research focuses on aging, itching, atopic dermatitis, pruritus, and inflammatory skin diseases. He also serves as the assistant dean of student affairs at the College of Medicine – Tucson.
